

Website of the Week

<https://www.scientificamerican.com/>

The screenshot shows the Scientific American website homepage. At the top, there's a navigation bar with a 'Subscribe' button, 'Latest Issues' link, the 'SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN 175' logo, a 'Cart 0' indicator, and links for 'Sign In' and 'Stay Informed'. Below this is a horizontal menu with categories: THE SCIENCES, MIND, HEALTH, TECH, SUSTAINABILITY, EDUCATION, VIDEO, PODCASTS, BLOGS, and PUBLICATIONS. A central banner promotes signing up for free newsletters, featuring a smartphone displaying the app and a 'Sign Up' button. The main content area is divided into three columns. The left column features a 'Scientific American 175 ARTIFACTS from the ARCHIVE SPACE' section with the headline 'It Seems the Universe Might Be Expanding' dated March 12, 2020, and a 'SPACE' section with the headline 'Molten Iron Rain Falls on Scorching-Hot Exoplanet' dated March 12, 2020. The middle column is dominated by a large article titled 'Researchers Rush to Test Coronavirus Vaccine in People' with a 'MEDICINE' tag. The right column includes an 'ARTS & CULTURE' section with the headline 'Is This Indonesian Cave Painting the Earliest Portrayal of a Mythical Story?' and an 'ENGINEERING' section with the headline 'Pricey Storm-Surge Barriers May Be Worth It'. At the bottom right, there's a 'SPONSORED CONTENT' section titled 'An African Science Safari' and a 'CHEMISTRY' section titled 'New Party Food: Oxygen'. A small video player is visible at the bottom left of the page.
