ABOUT ANVESH

Anvesh 2025 is celebrating the 20th edition of the prestigious Doctoral Conference in Management organised by the Institute of Management, Nirma University. This annual conference serves as a global platform for doctoral students, providing a range of engaging activities that include paper presentations, academic discussions, research clinics, and workshops. The primary aim of Anvesh is to foster collaboration among research scholars from around the world. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in insightful conversations, share valuable knowledge and experiences, and explore new research avenues that could significantly influence the future of management studies.

CALL FOR PAPERS

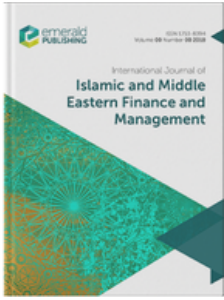

The rapid evolution of web technologies and cutting-edge advancements drives organisational excellence at an exceptional pace. To encourage progress, exploring new approaches through collaboration with researchers, service providers, and industry partners is crucial. Navigating this complexity requires the implementation of effective strategies. Integrating the concept of design thinking into the organisational framework presents an opportunity to advance research in various fields, including organisational development, social initiatives, product development, open collaboration, sustainability, and disruptive advancements. This conference aims to shape future business practices by adopting more resilient management strategies while creating systems to manage resources and identify new opportunities amid transformative changes. We warmly invite the academic community to participate in this conference to explore and strengthen new partnerships.
